

Ford assumes duties as Vice President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford formally assumed his duties as the nation's 40th vice president today.

He signed the papers so he can get paid, received his parking stickers and presided over the first 12 minutes of today's Senate session.

Then, as Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., was speaking about a bill to provide educational benefits for Vietnam veterans, Ford turned the gavel over to freshman Democratic Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa.

Before coming onto the Senate floor for the 10 a.m. opening, Ford received a copy of the Senate rules, the ivory gavel used by the presiding officer and posed for pictures in a formal office just off the floor.

He was in the chair as the Rev. Dr. C. Ralston Smith of Bethesda, Md., the day's guest chaplain, paid note to his assumption of the nation's second highest elected office.

"Especially do we ask Thy blessing upon our vice president, Gerald Ford, as he undertakes the responsibility of presiding at these significant sessions," said Dr. Smith, an assistant to the Rev. Billy Graham.

Ford became vice president on Thursday and pledged loyalty to President Nixon and devotion to the search for truth and compromise.

Vice President
Gerald R. Ford

The 60-year-old Ford was sworn into office by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in historic ceremonies Thursday night. Looking on was a packed joint session of Congress, the government's highest officials and a nation watching on television.

Just hours earlier, the House, in which he served for 25 years, had approved him by a 387-35 vote after a debate punctuated by statements that Nixon's Watergate troubles might shortly elevate Ford to the presidency.

"Whatever grounds there are for impeachment can now be judged solely on their own merits by members on both sides of the aisle," Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, said after the vote. He noted that Republicans especially had been reluctant to talk about impeachment while the vice presidency was vacant.

Added to the Senate's earlier 92-3 vote, the House action completed confirmation of the first vice president nominated under the 25th Amendment, enacted in 1967.

Nixon stood nearby. Senators, diplomats, family and friends packed the House chamber, as the veteran House Republican leader took office. Just 57 days earlier Spiro T. Agnew had resigned the vice presidency before pleading no contest to a tax evasion charge.

Ford's eight-minute speech was interrupted 10 times by applause, from both Republican and Democratic sides of the House chamber, especially when he pledged "my dedication to the rules of law and equal justice for all Americans."

His wife held the Bible, on which he swore to "support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic. His four children sat near Mrs. Nixon in a gallery.

After the 15-minute ceremony, Ford led senators back to their side of the Capitol. There he assumed his duties as president of the Senate in a brief initiation ceremony marked by his first, and last, speech to the Senate.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said that, though Ford was nominated by the President and confirmed by the House and Senate, "he is not beholden to either body or to the President."

After 25 minutes handling the vice president's sole constitutional duty, presiding over the Senate, Ford was off to a reception given by his Michigan colleagues.

Democrats repeatedly assailed President Nixon, while Republicans concentrated on praising Ford rather than defending their embattled President.

Many Republicans said privately what Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said publicly a day earlier, that installation of Ford increases the likelihood Nixon will be impeached if he fails to restore his credibility.

Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House GOP Conference, conceded that. "Ultimately, that could be the result of today's events." But he said he expects "a little lull" while congressmen and senators sample home-front opinion during a month-long recess scheduled to start in two weeks.

Although the vote approving Ford had long been rated a certainty, a mighty roar arose from the Republican side as his total surpassed the 218 that is a majority of the House.

Another roar came when Ford, who didn't vote on his own nomination, entered the chamber, ascended the rostrum and stood with Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., waving to the members like a victorious nominee at a political convention.

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

No gasoline rationing before March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration says there will be no rationing of gasoline before March, and a House committee has taken a step to save that fuel by voting to ease auto emission standards.

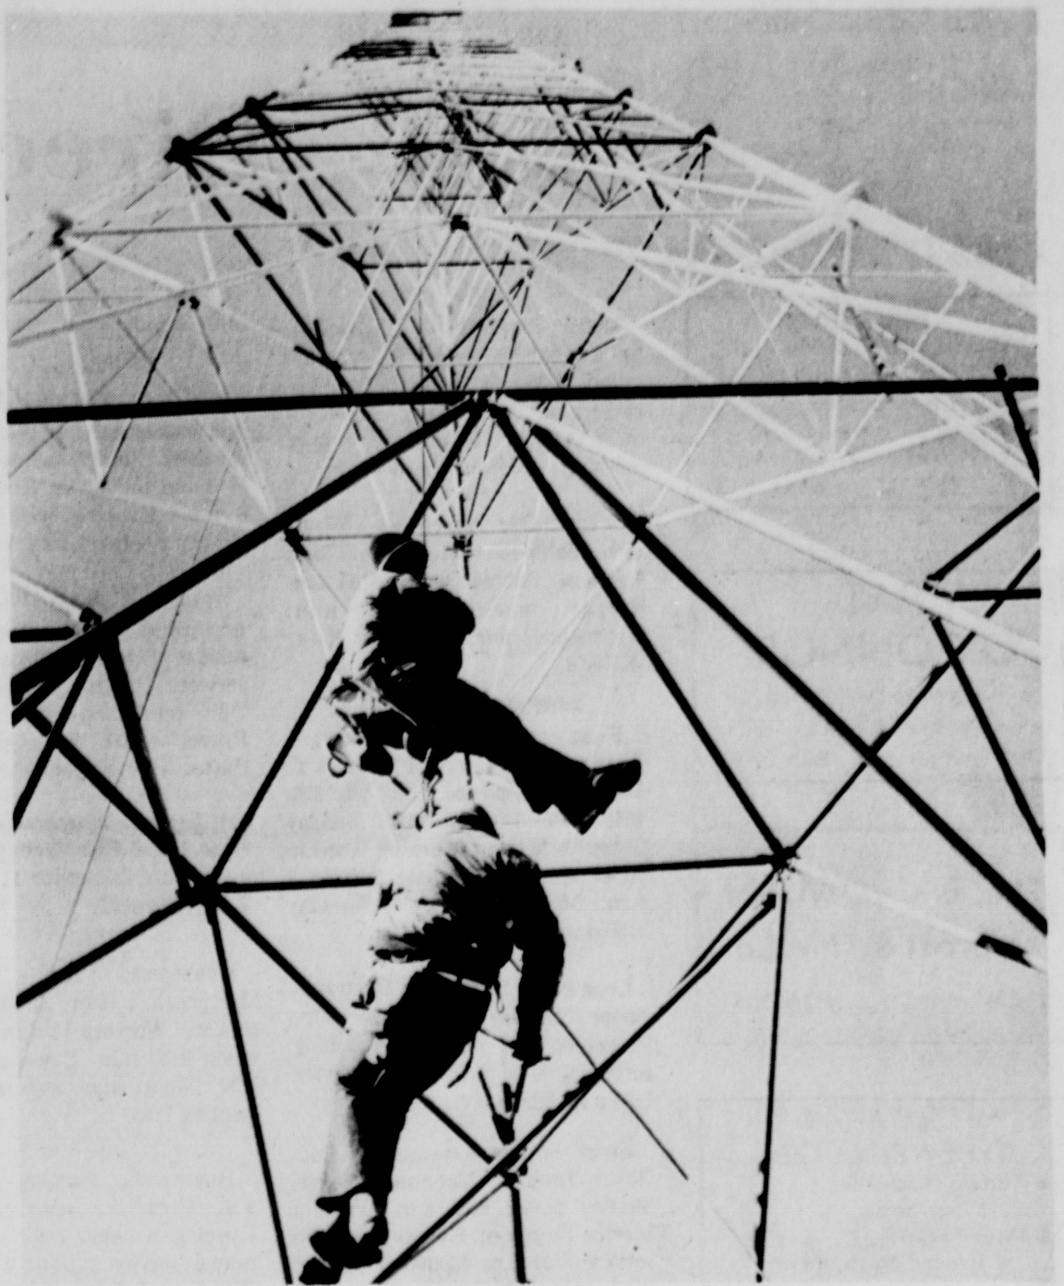

The House Commerce Committee Thursday night adopted a compromise car exhaust provision that would slow clean air efforts for at least a year. The measure added to the emergency energy legislation requested by President Nixon would require the auto makers to meet the 1975 standards but would suspend any further exhaust cleanup until 1977.

The bill giving Nixon broad energy rationing and conservation powers is scheduled for a final committee vote today. Also today, the Senate is expected to vote on a $20-billion energy research and development bill.

William E. Simon, head of federal energy programs, told a Senate committee Thursday the administration will decide this month whether to impose gasoline rationing but that it would take until March before any such program could be put into effect. Simon repeated previous administration statements that rationing will be used only as a last resort.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the Senate's leading energy spokesman, told Simon the nation is wasting a million barrels of oil each day that a rationing decision is postponed.

The nation must conserve about three million barrels of oil a day in order to counter the estimated effects of the Arab oil cutoff. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger called on the Arab nations Thursday to relax their embargo in response to U.S. efforts to work for an Israeli withdrawal from occupied territory.

Lying to grand jury is denied by Chapin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential appointments secretary Dwight L. Chapin pleaded innocent today to charges he lied to the Watergate grand jury about the activities of political saboteur Donald H. Segretti.

Judge Gerhard A. Gesell released Chapin on personal recognizance. Chapin, 32, was indicted Nov. 29 on four counts of "making false declarations before grand jury or court."

Each federal count carries a maximum penalty of five years and a fine of $10,000. Chapin had appeared before the grand jury last April 11 and was asked what he knew of the activities of Segretti, underground political agent for the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign committee.

The indictment alleged Chapin made the following false statements:

—That he told Segretti to cooperate with the FBI.

—That he had no knowledge of and never discussed distribution of campaign literature by Segretti.

—That he could not recall ever giving Segretti "any directions or instructions with respect to any single or particular candidate."

—That his knowledge of salary and expenses paid Segretti came only from what he had read in newspapers.

Segretti pleaded guilty to three misdemeanor charges of violating federal campaign laws during the 1972 Florida Democratic presidential campaign primary. He is serving a six-month sentence at a minimum security federal installation at Lompoc, Calif.

Segretti agreed to cooperate fully with the special Watergate prosecutor's office. Gesell scheduled Chapin's trial for next Feb. 19.

Meanwhile, in other Watergate developments, a federal judge is waiting for technical opinion on what might have caused an 18-minute gap in a White House tape.

Unemployment rate up to 4.7 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate jumped to 4.7 per cent of the work force in November, signaling the beginning of sharply higher joblessness as the result of the fuel shortage, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that the number of people out of work increased by 200,000 last month, in a survey taken just a few weeks after the Arab oil embargo.

The jump from October's 4.5 per cent unemployment could be traced as much to a slowing of the general economy as to job layoffs caused by the embargo. Economists expect that the first big impact of the fuel shortage on jobs will be felt in either December or January.

The Nixon administration has predicted that the unemployment rate will rise to almost six per cent next year as the embargo begins to chill economic growth and forces more people from their jobs.

While total employment held steady at 85.7 million, the number of people out of work rose by 200,000 to 4.3 million. This

It seemed clear that the October jobless rate of 4.5 per cent may be the lowest the nation will see for some time. But analysts in the bureau said there was no way of detecting whether the oil cut-off had much impact on employment in November. The increase occurred mainly among adult women and men aged 16 to 24.

It was centered among blue-collar and service workers, with the rate for blue-collar workers rising from 5.1 to 5.5 per cent and for service workers from 5.1 to 6 per cent.

The bureau said the unemployment rise was accounted for primarily by job loss. As a result, it said, the percentage of the unemployed who had lost their last job increased substantially from 1.6 per cent to 1.9 per cent of the labor force.

The jobless rate for adult women climbed from 4.4 per cent to 4.7 per cent.

For household heads the jobless rate edged up from 2.7 to 2.9 per cent. For blacks, it increased from 8.3 per cent to 9.1 per cent.

Bond names Hazel Palmer as new county Magistrate

Miss Hazel Palmer

Miss Hazel Palmer was officially named by Gov. Christopher Bond Friday as Magistrate Court judge of Pettis County. She received the announcement from the governor's office shortly before noon.

Miss Palmer, 70, a Sedalia attorney and former county collector, was nominated by the Republican county committee Nov. 27 to fill the unexpired term of the former judge, Frank T. Armstrong, who died Nov. 23.

The appointment, Miss Palmer said, was not unexpected. "I didn't want to assume that I would be selected."

Miss Palmer will begin her duties after she received her commission from the state secretary of state's office and is sworn in. She said she didn't know when exactly this might be.

She said she also plans to consult with acting

Kelley promises report on Hoover's New Left operations

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today promised a full detailed report on operations of a three-year program launched by the late J. Edgar Hoover "to expose, disrupt and otherwise neutralize" the New Left movement.

Kelley strongly defended the so-called counter-intelligence operation as a vital measure "to protect the fabric of our society."

Kelley promised the report to the attorney general, indicating that it would not be made public immediately, and offered no additional information about the program's activities.

Hoover established the nationwide operation on May 10, 1968, and terminated it on April 28, 1971.

Sources have said the operation involved the use of agents-provocateurs to incite possible violent activities.

Two memos giving a general description of the operation were made public by the FBI on Thursday after the Justice Department decided against appealing a court order that they be turned over to an NBC newsmen.

The bulk of Kelley's 3½ page statement today was devoted to a defense of the operation, beginning with an account of what he called "a hard core revolutionary movement which ... set out, in its own words to bring the government to its knees through the use of force and violence."

Kelley said the government "would have been derelict in its duty had it not taken the measures to protect the fabric of our society."

He acknowledged that critics may condemn such activities and said he may agree to additional legislation governing the FBI's counterintelligence activities.

An informed Justice Department source said Thursday that the FBI possesses many other documents outlining specific activities of the nationwide attack on the New Left.

Runway O.K. pending

FAA lists items for completion at airport

The Sedalia Airport soon will be a step closer to having an officially operational runway, pending completion of several items prescribed by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

Jim Abbas, airport manager, told the Airport Board Thursday that FAA representatives from Kansas City have completed a preliminary inspection on work that has been done on the new airport.

According to Abbas, the FAA wants the beacon tower and wind cone moved from the adjacent airport that is now being used, to the site of the new runway.

Another FAA stipulation is that no wires or poles may be located within 1,500 feet of the center of the runway, power lines presently are located approximately 300 feet from the runway, Abbas said.

The board authorized Abbas to tell Howard Construction Co., to move the beacon tower and wind cone if FAA will approve the runway for official operation with the power lines temporarily in the present location. The lines eventually will be placed underground, Abbas said.

Louis R. Hughes Jr., airport board chairman, said the board "wants to make sure we are in full compliance with the FAA" before the beacon tower is moved.

"The authorization (to move the beacon tower and wind cone) has been given," Abbas said Friday. "They (FAA officials) told me Friday that it would be up to the discretion of the airport manager of board whether to operate the runway on a partime basis with the power lines as they are now. Of course, we can't operate it on a full scale basis, but there's nothing to prohibit us from using it during the day."

Also needed is a transformer unit for the Visual Approach Slope Indicator VASI and a wind T. The VASI unit is a light system used to assist pilots in gradual approach for landing. The wind T is a light system designed to give wind directions. Abbas said he expects delivery of the wind T by Jan. 25, but he has no idea when the VASI unit will arrive.

Abbas told the board that lights for the new runway are operational but are not being turned on in order to avoid traffic problems with the lights on the old runway.

Abbas said the FAA will conduct one more inspection on the airport and at that time, the airport will receive the remaining 10 per cent of matching funds supplied by the FAA and all payments will be made.

In other business, Abbas told the board that on Wednesday, the airport received 100 gallons of fuel more than the expected maximum allocation of 2,200 gallons. The airport now has 1,200 gallons of 100-octane aviation gasoline and 1,100 gallons of 80-octane. The airport still has no jet fuel. Abbas said he has had no response from state government officials on his request for jet fuel.

The board also authorized board chairman Bill Burkholder to Talks examine school tax issue

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Protestants and Roman Catholics, who for years have feuded over tax help for religiously oriented schools, have begun a joint re-examination of the basic issue seeking a common approach to it.

Although still in the early stages, the talks have brought hints of shifting in the Protestant position and a shared consensus about some fundamental premises.

For one thing, participants agreed the educational system should not convey values alien to Christianity. Also, mutual feelings were voiced that public schools tend to do just that — uphold a pattern of values that downgrade faith by ignoring it.

The Rev. Dr. Edward A. Powers, a Protestant educator who heads an interchurch committee sponsoring the talks, says many Protestants now agree with Catholics that "values which the public schools convey are alien to much of what we value most highly."

To the extent Protestants take that view, it represents a shift in their long-time stance, which has been to support public schools as the best method in a diversified society.

But now, many Protestants are seeking ways to foster alternatives, says Dr. Powers, a New York official of the United Church of Christ.

Msgr. Olin J. Murdock of the U.S. Catholic Conference's Department of Education says a common Protestant-Catholic concern was shown for being "active in religious education," for helping religious groups operating their own schools, and to consider what impact the churches can have on public schools.

The discussions were spurred by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to refuse tax credits to parents of pupils in church schools, and clashes over it between the U.S. Catholic Conference and National Council of Churches.

While Catholics had favored the tax credits as a help to sustaining the church's extensive educational system, opposition came from the Council, including most major Protestant denominations.

Judging by Council statements over the past decade, Dr. Powers notes there has been a rather general Protestant assumption that "the public schools are good, desirable, human, ideal" and the churches should support them.

However, he adds that this assumption contrasts strikingly with the present criticisms many Protestants now make of public education's "monolithic quality," its limits on "new possibilities for full development of persons" and its "lack of tolerance for diversity."

The Rev. David Bowman, a Catholic ecumenical officer of the Council, says the initial talks showed a "virtual consensus" of Protestant and Catholic representatives that alternatives to public schools are needed.

Donations are up; attendance is down

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Fewer are giving more.

That's the evidence of new figures showing that contributions to the churches, which had sagged in recent years, are on the way up again.

Several major denominations—Southern Baptists, United Methodists, the United Church of Christ—report the latest 1973 statistics bear out the upward trend.

Yet the greater amount, in most cases, comes from a smaller number of people.

According to the newly accumulated broader figures, Americans dropped 5.2 per cent more into church collection plates last year than in the year before. The gain exceeded the 3.2 per cent rise in living costs by nearly 2 per cent.

The findings are based on a compilation by the National Council of Churches of statistics from 39 denominations. Altogether they received $4.6 billion in 1972, about $229 million more than in the previous year.

The total does not include revenues of many other Protestant denominations, nor the Roman Catholic Church. Counting these, indications are that the sum of United States religious giving is approaching $9 billion annually.

However, as a partial but substantial index to giving habits in the country, the newest figures bring out the paradoxical aspect of more money coming from fewer people.

Ten major denominations, all showing some losses in membership, reported receiving $2.6 billion last year—$88 million more than before. Yet their over-all membership declined 1.5 million to a total of 28.3 million.

As a result, their membership losses average about 5 per cent, while their income gained 3.5 per cent. Per capita giving averaged $103.33, up nearly 7 per cent from the $96.74 of the previous year.

The 10 denominations are: The American Baptist Churches, Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Episcopal Church, Lutheran Church in America, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, United Presbyterian Church, Presbyterian Church U.S. (southern), Reformed Church in America, United Church of Christ and United Methodist Church.

The more conservative Southern Baptist Convention, whose 12 million members make it the nation's largest Protestant body, reported contributions slightly over $1 billion—the first Protestant body to top the billion-dollar mark.

The Southern Baptist gain was higher than most other groups—up $96 million from the previous year's $974 million—a gain of almost 10 per cent.

Royal honeymooners visit a rural market

By ISAAC A. LEVI
 Associated Press Writer

SASQUISILI, Ecuador (AP) — "Look! Look! It's the Queen of London herself," said the Indian woman hanging over a crate of manioc roots for a better look.

"No, no," said her friend. "It's the princess of England and her new husband."

Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips drove to the little farm town of Sasquisili, an hour from Quito, for some sightseeing and a little shopping in the Indian market. It was the town's most exciting day since an earthquake 30 years ago.

Indian women wearing large felt hats against the sun and men in drab woolen ponchos kicked up billows of dust as they crowded around the young couple.

Four brawny men held aloft a flagpole with a dozen colored streamers hanging from it. Others in masks grabbed the streamers and did a dance called San Juan the Weaver. San Juan is the town's patron saint.

The local riding champion knew of the love Anne and Mark have for horses, so he offered the princess his dusty mount to ride. Anne, dressed in white flare jeans and sneakers, declined politely, and he went away muttering in disappointment.

The couple, on their way home after their honeymoon cruise to the Galapagos Islands, mingled freely with the crowd and seemed to enjoy it all.

They stopped at many stalls to inspect Indian blankets, trinkets, gaudily colored masks and other crafts. Each bought a navy blue poncho.

From Sasquisili, the young couple and their escorts from the British Embassy took a two-hour drive up the slope of snow-capped Mt. Cotopaxi. They stopped beside a cool, clear spring to picnic.

The nation's agricultural exports in the current fiscal year ending next June 30 are expected to total about $10 billion.

Pedestrian accidents discussed

Pedestrian safety on the nation's streets and highways was discussed at the luncheon meeting of the Sedalia Kiwanis Club at the Bothwell Hotel on Thursday.

Cpl. Jim Watson, stationed at Troop A headquarters of the Missouri Highway Patrol in Lee's Summit, was the speaker. Watson is a former Sedalian.

Watson said there have been 162 pedestrian accidents in the state so far this year, 54 of which were fatal. He said 20 per cent of all traffic casualties are pedestrians.

In a color film, "Step Lightly," the value of reflectorized clothing for pedestrians at night was illustrated. Such features enable drivers to see pedestrians at night at much greater distances than otherwise and stop accordingly, the film stated.

Watson reported on proposed legislation related to traffic safety, mentioning a mandatory seat belt use bill and another requiring driver's training in all high schools in the state.

Paul Edwards introduced the program.

Dennis Borchers, Soil Conservation Service agent here, was a guest of Bob Austin.

Document road district cost for road repair

A representative from the state disaster operations office was in Sedalia Friday documenting the expenses of four road districts which have completed flood repair projects from damage to public roads and bridges last spring.
Bob Gruner, area coordinator for the disaster office in Jefferson City, said the documentation was one of the standard procedures before the remainder of federal flood relief funds are distributed to the road districts.
Affected districts are Sedalia 12-Mile, Hughesville, Green Ridge and Houstonia. The expenses of the other two road districts — Pettis County and Rowlette — will be documented later when all the repairs are completed, he said.
Before the remainder of funds will be awarded, the books of the road districts also will have to be audited, Gruner said.
The Hughesville, Green Ridge and Houstonia road districts elected to receive 50 per cent of their federal funds this summer. The 12-Mile Special Road District elected to receive all of its funds after the repair projects were completed.
The total anticipated money to be received by each district is as follows: 12-Mile, $15,049; Houstonia, $2,781.20; Hughesville, $6,158.15; and Green Ridge, $2,112.40.
Gruner said no district would receive funds in excess of its expenses. He added that the rest of the funds would be distributed in the spring.

700 gallons of gasoline stolen here

Police are investigating the theft of approximately 700 gallons of gasoline, valued at $266, from the Co-op Gas Co., Clinton Road, sometime late Wednesday.
Ervin Robb, manager, told police that someone broke two locks off two gas storage tanks on the company grounds and drained about 700 gallons. A gas tank valve, valued at $50, was also damaged. Police reported no suspects in the incident.
In other police news, a .38 caliber revolver and a .44 magnum revolver, valued together at almost $200, were taken from the Tempo store, 3107 West Broadway, sometime Tuesday or Wednesday, according to police. John Bellman, 22 Townhouse Manor, an employee, reported the theft.
The past few days have produced a rash of broken windows. Thomas Byrd, 114 West Jefferson, told police that a windshield and two side windows, worth $130, were shot out of his 1968 Mustang at Broadway Lanes sometime Thursday night. Byrd reported that five holes were found in the windshield and one bullet hole in each of the two side windows.
A window valued at $100 was reported broken on the back of a camper owned by Raymond T. Crafton, 1220 East Seventh.

Charles Moon, 219 South Gentry, found the left rear window glass of his 1973 Opal broken. Moon told police that the car was undamaged at 9 p.m. Thursday, but when he left to get his wife from work at 1 a.m. Friday he found the window. Valued at $70, broken out.
A garage door window and a large picture window of undetermined value were reported broken sometime early Sunday morning at the home of James Schlotzhauer, 300 State Fair Blvd. Schlotzhauer told police that he found a small rock on the inside of the picture window.

Bobbie Fisher, 220 West Johnson, told police that she and two friends were driving home shortly after 10 p.m. Thursday when a car pulled behind them and someone shot out the back indow of their car. The incident occurred at Third and Massachusetts.
The headline for paying city taxes for this year is Dec. 31, she said.

Bill giving 18-year-olds majority rights pre-filed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Full majority rights for 18-year-olds, including the right to buy liquor, may become a reality if a bill pre-filed Thursday for the regular session of the Missouri legislature is passed.
Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, is sponsor of the bill. He introduced the same legislation last year but was unable to get it passed on the final day of the session.
Bills to give majority rights to 18-year-olds have already been pre-filed in the House, but they place restrictions on the purchase of liquor.
Pre-filing of bills slowed down Thursday. So far about 500 bills have been introduced for the session beginning Jan. 9.
Other bills pre-filed would:
—Require election officials to notify candidates they must file expense statements.
—Set up minimum jail standards.
—Establish a St. Louis Port Authority.
—Increase credit hour requirements for barbers from 1,000 hours to 1,500 hours.
—Allow semi-trailer trucks carrying tractors to be as long as 60 feet.
—Prohibit utility employees from working in manholes or excavations alone.

—Create a state division of credit unions.
—Require telephone bills to state where complaints may be filed.
—Prohibit state or county boards or commissions from denying a person a license solely on the basis that a criminal conviction precludes the applicant from demonstrating good moral character, if there is no evidence that probation has been violated.
—Require a hearing by the Public Service Commission counsel on phone service in any county where the last census showed more than 20 per cent of the homes were without a telephone.
—Control debt collectors and prevent them from harassing or threatening people. Suits would have to be filed by the attorney general within one year.
—Give sole licensing power to the state, and not the counties, in licensing architects, engineers, land surveyors, barbers, certified public accountants, dentists, embalmers or funeral home directors, haidressers, insurance agents, nursing home administrators, optometrists, pharmacists, doctors, podiatrists, private business school agents, watchmen or guards, physical therapists, psychologists, real estate brokers, registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, veterinarians, social workers, shorthand reporters and well drillers.

Fair's fund bid before governor

(Democrat-Capital Service)
JEFFERSON CITY — Governor Christopher Bond Friday reviewed a $48,000 emergency funds request for the Missouri State Fair, presented by Commissioner of Agriculture James Boillot, but declined to comment on it except to say that the state's ultimate goal should be to make the Fair a self-sustaining operation.
Boillot told Bond that the Fair's operations fund for the coming fiscal year failed to account for inflationary cost increases and, in fact, is less than the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year.
State Fair Secretary Ron Jones earlier estimated that approximately $747,158 will be spent on Fair operations by the end of the present fiscal year. He indicated at that time that he would request between $850,000 and $860,000 in state funds for the 1975-76 fiscal year. The exact amount of the proposed state appropriation for the next fiscal year could not be immediately determined.
Jones was not available for comment Friday.

Fund drive still short by $1,000

The annual fund-raising drive for the Children's Therapy Center has reached the $14,000 mark. William F. Brown, chairman of the drive, announced Friday.
This means that the drive is only $1,000 short of its 1973 goal of $15,000. Brown said.
A Center spokesman said, "We're still hoping to reach this goal through mail-in contributions. A lot of people in the county weren't reached by the door-to-door drive this year and we're hoping they will contribute if they haven't done so yet."
The Center is supported entirely by donations.
Brown urged persons still wishing to make a donation to mail it to the Center at 14th and Ingram in Sedalia.

Airport

purchase tanks and pumps for the airport's "tank farm." This is a storage area containing the airport's supplies of various fuels. Burkholder said he has received estimates from a Springfield supplier on two tanks and two pusher pumps.
Burkholder said a 10,000 gallon tank would cost an estimated $1,607, a 12,000 gallon tank would be $1,958 and the two pumps would cost $327 each. He said these quoted prices also were subject to change by the manufacturers.
The board told Don Buller, of Sammons and Buller, architects, to check with the FAA for approval to supervise construction on the airport building and hangars.
Hughes told the board he has had several requests to lease outlying airport property for farming. Abbas said he would find out how much of the property could be used for farming and still comply with FAA regulations.

Youths rob man of $400 in cash on north side

A Linn Creek, Mo., man told police that he was robbed of more than $400 by several youths early Friday morning after they offered to show him a late-night restaurant.
Floyd Atwell said that he stopped his car on Main Street shortly after midnight Friday to ask four youths, who were walking on the sidewalk, if they knew of a restaurant where he could get something to eat. The youths reportedly told Atwell that they knew of a restaurant and got in the car to show the way.
Atwell told police that he was directed to drive north across the tracks and, after turning onto different streets, was told to stop in front of a white house. Atwell said that a dark car pulled alongside after he had stopped.
At this time, according to Atwell, one of the boys in the car told him to give them all of his money "or this will be it." Atwell said that he gave them four $100 bills and an undetermined amount of change. The youths then got into the dark car and left, Atwell reported.

Atwell told police that all of the youths were in their teens except for one who was "10 or 11 years old."

Det. Sgt. Perry Franklin said Friday morning that there was no apparent connection between the theft of Atwell's money and an armed robbery Tuesday evening in which James Brader, Stover, was robbed of $600 at gunpoint on the north side of Sedalia after he accepted a ride with two men at the Main Street Bar.

Police are continuing an investigation of the incidents.

Railroad crossing accident in Smithton

(Democrat-Capital Service)
SMITHTON — A rural Sedalia man was injured here Thursday afternoon when the car he was driving bolted in front of a westbound Amtrak passenger train at a railroad signal crossing.
Injured was Harry Zinn, 84, Route 5, who was driving a northbound 1962 Ford sedan that failed to stop for a train signal, according to the Highway Patrol.
The mishap occurred on Washington Street here at approximately 4:10 p.m. Investigating officers said the Zinn vehicle moved forward across the intersection, striking the extreme left front portion of the train's engine. The car was knocked 27 feet west of the intersection.
Zinn suffered a fractured left hand and broken ribs and was admitted to Bothwell Hospital for observation.

Law suit hinged on earth moving

An alleged earthmoving mistake resulted in a $3,000 lawsuit in Pettis County Circuit Court.
The suit was filed Friday by Shelton and Carroll Caudle against the Kenneth Steele Construction Co., 1320 South Murray.
The petition alleges that on April 30 an employe of the construction company, while operating earth moving equipment, caused a concrete foundation to crack on a house owned by the Caudles in Elm Hills.
The plaintiffs are seeking the money for repairs they reportedly had to make and other expenses.

Police Court

Running a red light: Robert Phillips, Route 3, forfeited $10.

Disorderly conduct: Bobbie Otten, Smithton, forfeited $50.

Leaving the scene of an accident: Geneva Pebworth, 1418 South Ohio, continued.

Interview four applicants for director's job

Four applicants seeking to become the city's next economic development director were interviewed Thursday afternoon in the Municipal Building conference room by members of the Economic Development Board.

Among those interviewed during the two-hour session, which was closed to the news media, was W. C. Askew, former secretary of the Missouri State Fair. Another applicant currently is an economic development director in another Missouri town. The remaining applicants were local residents, it was learned.

Board Chairman Don Broaddus said Friday no action will be taken until three other persons are interviewed next Thursday.

Board members present for the interviews were Broaddus, Adam Fischer, Louis Hughes, Robert Woolery, Raymond Bales, Walter Savio and Jack Robinson. Board members absent were Jesse Robinson and Robert Hardwick.

City Councilman Ira Knox and Mayor Jerry Jones also attended a portion of the meeting.

Extradition of Vesco is refused

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A Bahamian magistrate today refused to order the extradition to the United States of fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco.

Magistrate Emmanuel Osadebay ruled that under the terms of a 1931 U.S.-Bahamas extradition treaty, Vesco, 38, could not be extradited because the charge against him in New York had no equivalent in Bahamian law.

Osadebay held that the United States failed to prove that there is in the Bahamas an offense "substantially similar" to the one in U.S. law, as required by the terms of the extradition agreement.

The ruling, issued as the result of almost two weeks of testimony, cannot be directly appealed by U.S. Justice Department attorneys who requested the financier's return.

Vesco was not in court and was excused earlier from attending the hearing. He was arrested in his Bahamas Commonwealth Bank in Nassau Nov. 6 and then released on $75,000 cash bond.

Vesco also has escaped extradition from Costa Rica, where he is a part-time resident.

The extradition arguments in Nassau centered on a single indictment charging Vesco with fraud in the embezzlement of $50,000 from International Controls Corp. of Fairfield, N. J.

Vesco also has been indicted on a charge involving a $200,000 campaign contribution to President Nixon.

Woman is crushed in camper accident

(Democrat-Capital Service)

ELDON — A woman was killed at 10:05 a.m. Tuesday at her parents' home near here while attempting to stop a rolling camper bus.
The Highway Patrol reported that the accident occurred when Linda Reece, 21, started her 1959 converted school bus-camper and got out of it momentarily to move a Volkswagen that was parked in front of it.
The bus began rolling down an incline and the Reece woman was pinned between the bus and a tree when she apparently tried to stop the bus. She was pronounced dead on the scene.
The accident occurred about three miles west of Business Route 54 on Route W.

Acquittal
in slaying
of official

KANSAS CITY (AP) — James A. Willis was acquitted late Thursday by a circuit court jury in the 1970 slaying of state Rep. Leon Jordan, leader of the strongest black political organization in Kansas City.

The jury deliberated 75 minutes after Willis testified that he was in California trying to sell two cars on the day Jordan was shot.

One juror said "There is no doubt in my mind that he was in California."

Willis, 38, leaped in the air with his arms raised when the verdict was read.

"Rough, it was real rough," he said of the trial. "I feel good but I'm weak. I knew I wasn't guilty."

After the trial a U.S. marshal took Willis to the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kan., where he is serving an 18-month sentence for conspiring to evade purchase of a liquor license. He has a barbecue restaurant in Kansas City, Kan.

The state's case was based on the testimony of Walton I. Froniabarger, a six-time convicted felon, and Kenneth E. Irvin, former cleanup man at Jordan's tavern where the political leader was slain.

Froniabarger is serving a 16-year term for four felony convictions.

Two other men, Maynard Cooper and James Phillip Dearborn, also are charged in the slaying. Prosecution officials have said the case against Willis was the strongest of the three.

Cigarette butts
burn non-smoker

BY POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with discarded cigarette butts. Every day I have to go out to my front lawn and pick up butts and other trash that inconsiderate people toss out of their cars. Cigarette filter tips do not burn away and are just litter. I suppose I feel extra strongly about this because I do not smoke. It burns me up to have to clean up after someone else's dirty habit.

Also this could cause a fire so please smokers have mercy on those of us who try to keep clean trim yards and use your ash trays. I have even had guests flick their cigarette butts out on the lawn. Who do they think has to dispose of them?

— HOME OWNER ON A BUSY STREET.
DEAR POLLY — Do tell Marlyne to try cleaning her suede belt with an art gum eraser. One worked wonders on my suede coat, especially on the grease stains. — MRS. L.J.M.

DEAR POLLY — The library of a town in Michigan has a section where used patterns are loaned out just as books are. These patterns are brought in by anyone who has patterns she will not use again. I thought others (Patricia, in particular) might like to see if they could get such an idea started in their own libraries. — N.F.

DEAR POLLY — I always keep a couple of pieces of lemon frozen and wrapped in plastic wrap in the freezer and find it grates much more easily. — AVIS.

DEAR POLLY — First I want to thank Mrs. R.L. for her very useful Pointer on the use of cup hooks screwed into the back of a bed headboard to hold radio, lamp and electric blanket cords to keep them off the floor. I always clip the Pointers that are useful for me and put them in a scrapbook.

My own Pointer is for the use of worn ironing board pads. Never discard one. They are great to use as comfortable and practical kneeling pads when any household job requires getting down on the knees. — MRS. C.S.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — My problem is with the dust that accumulates on my wet oil paintings. I would like to know how one keeps them clean while the paint is drying. — BRENDA.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John A. Scali, United States ambassador to the United Nations, says he will be ready to go back to work "full blast" in early January.

Scali, 55, spoke to newsmen Thursday as he left the Arizona Heart Institute, where he underwent a triple coronary bypass operation Nov. 20. Although he appeared pale and stumbled once as he left the hospital, Scali talked confidently and enthusiastically about the success of the operation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. James O. Eastland has taken a pay cut.

With the swearing in of Rep. Gerald R. Ford as vice president, Eastland's salary dropped Thursday from $62,500 a year to $47,500.

Eastland, as president pro tempore of the Senate, assumed the duties and prerogatives — and the salary — of the vice president after the resignation of Spiro T. Agnew on Oct. 10.

Although Eastland no longer will be collecting the $62,500 paid the vice president, the Mississippi Democrat still will be the third highest paid senator. As president pro tempore, he gets $47,500 instead of the regular Senate salary of $42,500 a year.

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles was unhurt in a three-car pileup while driving his own Range Rover, Buckingham Palace says.

The occupants of the other cars also escaped unhurt from the accident Thursday in a village near Weymouth on England's south coast.

Charles, 25, eldest son of Queen Elizabeth, was driving from Weymouth where he is attending a course in connection with his duties as a Royal Navy officer.

Ann Landers

Diner finds worm,
hairpin in food

Dear Ann Landers: What should a person do if he is dining in the home of a friend and he comes upon a foreign substance in the food like, shall we say, a hairpin in the souffle? This happened to me recently and I said nothing, but it could have been a serious thing.

Yesterday I had a similar experience, only it was a worm in a fresh peach which had been sliced and served over ice cream. I was speaking to hostess when I noticed it. I kept my wits about me, continued to talk, and ate around the worm.

If such a thing happens again what should be done? Do you feel the hostess would want to know? — Lost My Appetite

Dear Lost: Anyone who can eat around a worm and carry on a conversation with the hostess at the same time doesn't need advice from Ann Landers. I don't think the hostess would "want to know." Keep quiet, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me to divorce him before I lose my mind. My first marriage was a disaster. I was only 15 and didn't know what I was getting into. I somehow managed to finish nurse's training and support myself.

After being divorced only six months I married David, a smooth-talking, handsome alcoholic. (I didn't know it then but I should have recognized the signs.) That was six years ago and my life has been hell ever since.

I am 31 years old and look at least 40. I scream at my children and can't be civil to friends. David has had four car accidents, two of them totals. Our car insurance has been cancelled. We've been separated 14 times. I've caught him with terrible women, tramps he picks up in bars. I'm on needles and pins whenever he is around my family, afraid he'll insult somebody and start a fight.

David is on a bender now but he'll call in a few days and ask me to take him back. Of course,

I will. For some strange reason I still love him. I must be as sick as he is. Please, Ann, say something to convince me that I'm better off without him. — Older Than My Years

Dear Friend: In the first sentence of your letter, you ask me to tell you to divorce him. But you don't really want to divorce him or you'd have done it. The crux of your problem is expressed in the fourth sentence of your last paragraph. When you're well enough to give up the punishment, you'll split — for good.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old guy who needs to know what to do. Right now I'm hurt, mad, insulted and mixed up. This is my story.

I just phoned a girl I like a lot. We've dated some — not much, but I thought she liked me. When I asked her if I could come over after supper she said, "Wait a minute." She thought she had the mouthpiece of the phone covered and I heard her say, "How can I get rid of this creep? He wants to come over and I don't want him to." Then she came back on and said, "I'm sorry but I have to go someplace with my folks."

I can't avoid this bird because we are in several classes together and have the same friends. How should I act? Should I let her know I heard what she said? — Double Ears

Dear D. E.: Act natural. Don't let on that you heard her. Now that you know how she really feels, keep your distance and turn your attentions elsewhere.

Without rationing, poor will suffer

WASHINGTON — It was former Colorado governor John Love who got stabbed in the back in the latest energy crisis power struggle, but poor and middle class motorists are the ones who will do the bleeding.

Rowan

Love is out as the Nixon administration's "energy czar" because he lost a crucial policy fight against Treasury Secretary George Shultz and the latter's deputy, William Simon. Love argued that the nation had to ration gasoline while Shultz and Simon persist in the argument that in a "free market" gasoline prices will rise high enough to discourage consumption.

What that means is that families already struggling to make ends meet are going to do most of the sacrificing while rich Americans just pay a little more and go on living the good life.

If you doubt that, then consider Shultz's answer on "Meet the Press" when he was asked: "Would not higher prices for gasoline favor higher income groups to the disadvantage of lower-paid people?"

Shultz: "Not necessarily. Obviously you have a family budget with so much purchase of gasoline and fuel oil and to the extent that lower income groups use proportionate to their income a little bit more than higher income groups, it has some of that effect, but I don't think it is a major problem in the family budget."

The simplest arithmetic shows that that reply is an absurdity.

Well over half the families in this country live on less than $11,000 a year. Assuming they are one-car families, they are spending about $400 a year for gasoline. If prices rise the way Shultz & Co. think they should, these families are likely to have to spend another $500 a year or else curtail their driving drastically.

Try telling a $10,000-a-year family that another $500 a year for gasoline is not a "major problem in the family budget" — not to mention the 13,307,051 United States families (one out of every four) who live on less than $6,000 a year. Does Shultz know where working men and women can get quick $500-a-year pay increases?

Now you add some "free market" price hikes for heating oil and deregulate the price of natural gas and you have poked another gaping hole in the budget of the average family.

This "let prices rise" philosophy is acceptable only to those affluent

Americans for whom $1-a-gallon gasoline will be just another of the trifling costs of enjoying a luxurious life.

Some administration officials suggest discouraging the purchase of gasoline by adding a tax of about 40 cents a gallon, another measure that would strike hardest at low-income motorists. Advocates of such a tax pretend to offer working people a nice sop by making this special gasoline tax deductible on income tax returns.

But look at what would happen. A high-income man in a 50 per cent tax bracket would get half his gasoline tax money back, or $250 of a $500 tax payout. A lower-paid man in a 25 per cent bracket would get only $125 back. So, to carry the country through its energy crisis, the rich man would shell out $250, which is nothing to him, while the poorer man would shell out $375, which is everything to him.

Why not a system where every driver, rich or poor, gets a modest amount of gasoline (say 12 gallons per week) at a decent price. Then anyone wanting gasoline beyond that would pay a heavy tax, or a steep price. That would still discriminate against the poor, but not so ruthlessly or glaringly as what Shultz proposes.

Or we could go to the "white market" system where every licensed driver gets coupons for 10, 12, or 15 gallons a week — everyone gets the same amount — and the affluent are free to buy coupons from those poor folk who choose not to drive with gasoline at $1 a gallon.

No system can be so egalitarian that it wipes out all the inequities of a rich-people-poor-people world, but we simply cannot be so callous as to adopt a brazenly discriminatory "let prices rise" system.

The no sweat(er) approach

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Part of President Nixon's energy-saving program is that people should wear more sweaters. Naturally wanting to do my bit for my country, I began shopping for a wool pull-over.

What the President neglected to mention is that the price of wool has been increasing roughly equivalent to the rate that Pioneer 10 has been streaking toward Jupiter. I learned that this is because the Japanese have bought up most of the wool in the world, including ours.

In fact the Japanese are buying up EVERY material, especially cotton, in record amounts and for record prices. How can such small people wear so many clothes. I ask you?

A friend of mine in the import-export business said that the only fabric left in the world that the Japanese haven't cornered the market on yet is llama hair, which is still available in limited quantities in remote villages in the Andes.

The one material that the Japanese seem to be able to make for themselves is silk. I tried on a silk sweater the other day and found it nice to the touch but not too warm. Now I read there are signs that even the Japanese silk worms are lying down on the job, forcing that nation to turn to Chinese worms. They are more regimented and work like ants, but do tend to get on your nerves because they keep mouthing slogans from Mao Tse-tung.

Getting back to my original point, after some rough calculations I figured it would be cheaper to heat my home with enriched plutonium than buy wool sweaters for the whole family. We plan to make do with long underwear and hot chocolate.

Some people have urged that because of such hardships the United States should retaliate against the Arabs by stopping exports of food, arms, etc., to them. Personally I favor a gradualist approach.

For example we could clamp an embargo on camel imports to this country for starters, then move on to oriental rugs if necessary. A boycott of "Lawrence of Arabia" reruns is not beyond the realm of possibility.

I also submit this question to you: If we're forced to cancel the State Fair auto races next summer, should we permit the Arabian horse show to continue?

Think about it.

Position of Veep is filled by Ford

One of the few pieces of good news for a weary nation came Thursday, with the confirmation and swearing-in of Gerald R. Ford as vice president of the United States.

It is a relief to have a vice president again, after nearly a two-month vacancy in the office following the resignation of Spiro Agnew on Oct. 10. It is not good for the country to be in that kind of position, based on our recent history.

Ford is also a welcome addition to an administration that has been under seige now for many months, kept on the defensive and hunkered down, as Lyndon Johnson used to say, like a jack rabbit in a hail storm.

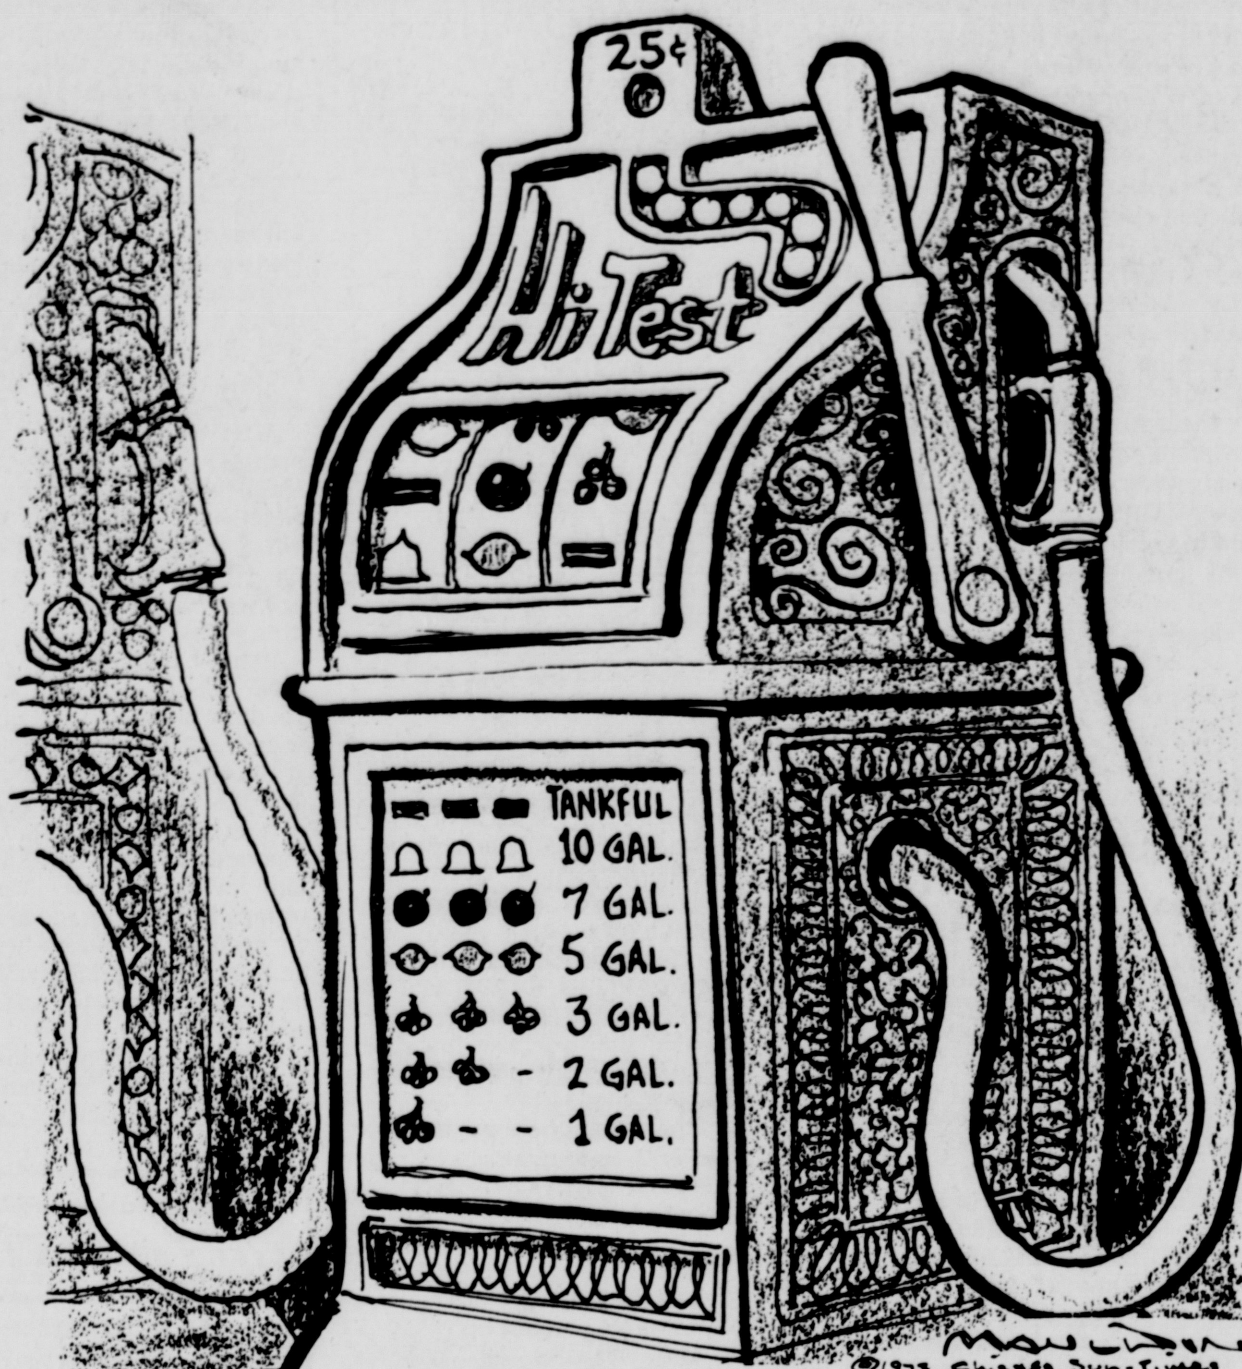

We badly need an opening up in Washington, a leveling with the Congress and the people. Jerry Ford, whatever his shortcomings in high-level experience, is this kind of forthright man. The overwhelming bipartisan endorsement he has received from both houses of Congress testifies to his character, honesty and integrity.

President Nixon is expected to use his new vice president primarily in improving relations between the executive and legislative branches, capitalizing on Ford's 25 years of experience in the House.

Much work needs to be done here, and not only among Democrats. Many Republicans feel slighted, if not ignored, by the administration, and are increasingly prone to put their own political survivability above their loyalty to the White House, as to Watergate. Here Ford can be a useful fence-mender.

Great problems confront this nation, and we need all the men and women of talent, ability and integrity that we can get. Gerald Ford fits into that category.

Merry-go-round

Christmas mail is not that merry

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — There has been nothing merry about our pre-Christmas mail. On one day alone, we counted 1,500 letters condemning and defending President Nixon. Most of our mail, however, has brought news tips and individual complaints. Here's a sampling:

KEVIN KENNEDY, Boston: "I read your column about President Nixon's emergency powers. Can't Congress revoke these powers?"

ANSWER: Over the years, Congress has passed 470 laws which grant the President dictatorial powers. All the President has to do is proclaim an emergency. What Congress giveth, of course, Congress can taketh away.

J. B. Atlanta: "I have heard that singer Frank Sinatra channeled Mafia money into the Nixon-Agnew campaign last year."

ANSWER: We have been able to trace $53,000 that Sinatra contributed to the Nixon-Agnew campaign. It was his own, not Mafia, money.

MAJ. GEN. HARRY VAUGHAN, (USA, ret.), the late President Truman's military aide, Arlington, Va.: "In the summer of 1946, I took Mrs. Vaughan and the children up (to the Camp David presidential retreat) for a week. There was a security detail of about 20 men at that time. I understand it now numbers over 200. In 1946, when guests were there, a cook and several stewards were sent up to take care of them. "We spent a rather tiresome week and I recall the water in the pool was under 50 degrees. I killed a rattler and two copperheads by way of recreation. A week or so after I returned home, I received a bill from the Navy for $140 for food. This, I would guess, was the last time in White House history that a presidential aide has paid for anything."

ANSWER: President Nixon has sunk $2.4 million of the taxpayers' money in the Camp David retreat, more than was spent by the three previous presidents combined. Among other improvements, Nixon built a fancy, heated, $150,000 pool outside his cabin. The cold-water pool is now used by his security men. Presidential aides are still dunned, however, for meals at Camp David.

FRANK STURGIS, member of the Watergate break-in crew, writing after a one-night stay at the Brunswick, Ga., city jail: "It was a small and very dirty place. The cell next to me on my left had two young girls, Karen — age 12, and Brenda — age 14, both white. On my right, in a cell were two young black boys, Mike — age 15, and Gary — age 16.

"Jack, with all my problems and me with a family, I just can't see what is happening in this world of ours that puts children in a jail.

"That night I froze with my two inmate friends. We had a blanket, and we burned everything we could get our hands on, including the mattress. We had to stop because the hacks came and we had to stop the fire. At least we stayed warm for a little while. We didn't sleep all night because of the wind and cold.

"I still cannot get it out of my mind that these young people are suffering in a dirty, cold and windy jail, and no one cares what happens to them. They are just children who have been in that jail approximately 22 days."

ANSWER: We have confirmed your report. The jailer claimed the cells are usually heated, but the "heat must have been kicked off" the night you were there.

E.C., Washington, D.C.: "The Air Force has disassembled a Soviet SAM-6, captured by the Israelis. It contained an integrated circuit stamped with the seal of the Texas Instrument Company. When the missile detects a heat source, the electronic guidance system switches from radar control to infrared home, and then the missile swings around, if necessary, and overtakes the plane in the rear."

Energy crisis a fact

Your Nov. 30 edition carried a story titled, "Fuel is not worry for airport manager." It quoted airport manager Jim Abbas.

Surely Mr. Abbas did not mean to mislead your readers and especially airport customers, but statements such as his are the very thing that adds confusion, and which delays Americans from accepting the fact that serious, but solvable energy problem exists. Until such unfounded statements stop and we start working together collectively, it will be more difficult to solve the energy challenge.

If Mr. Abbas spoke from fact, and not opinion, he would know that the energy problem is not a way of white-washing Watergate. Many responsible thought leaders of Missouri and throughout the United States, who are in no way

ANSWER: The missile you describe, with the Texas Instrument circuit, is found in the NATO arsenal. It does not, according to our Air Force sources, resemble the Soviet SAM-6.

R.J., Jacksonville, Fla.: "The U.S. attorney here, John Briggs, said in a speech that your employees broke into the late Sen. Tom Dodd's files. What is the difference between that and the Watergate break-in, which you have condemned?"

ANSWER: Dodd's papers, which provided evidence that he had violated federal laws, were removed from his files by his own employees, not mine. They later testified that I had counseled them not to rifle his files.

HAROLD GREEN, Chicago: "I have read conflicting reports about the senility of Mao Tse-tung."

ANSWER: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger during his recent Peking visit found Mao, now approaching 80, to be mentally alert. Another visitor caught the old revolutionary in a reflective mood. Mao acknowledged that his health was failing and spoke of his "appointment with God."

HAROLD JOHNSON, New York City: "Administration spokesmen say that a 50 mph speed limit not only will save fuel but reduce accidents. Shouldn't automobile insurance rates go down?"

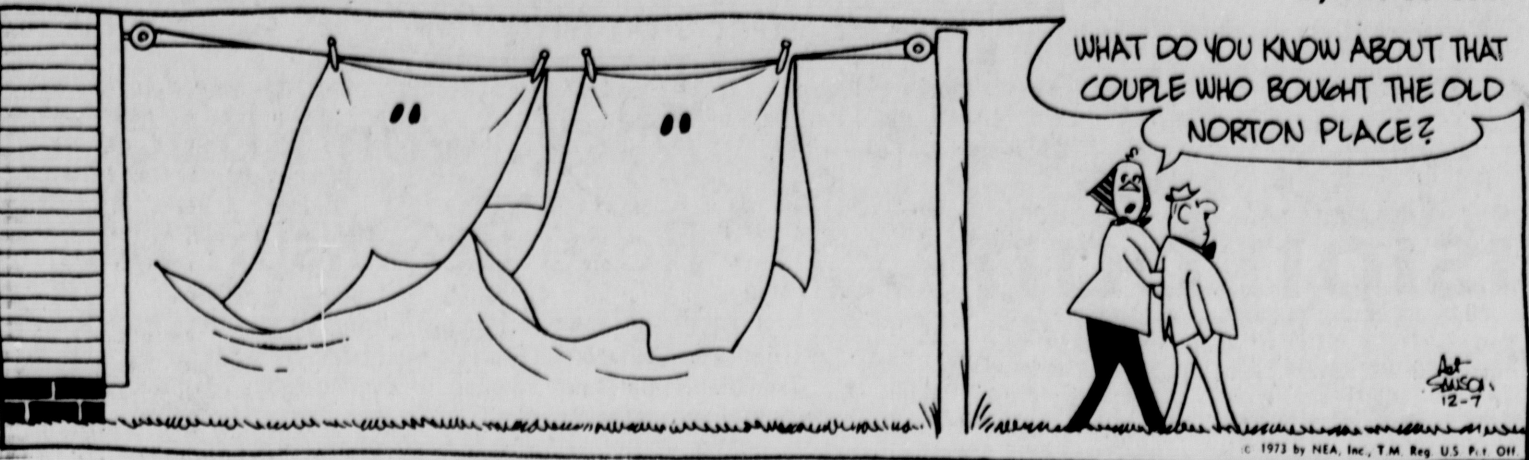

ANSWER: Don't count on it.

Some safety plays are really far-fetched. Others should be almost automatic for a careful player. South's three notrump contract looks like a cinch. He wins the heart lead and if he is at all careless he counts to 10 quick, easy tricks. Two spades, one heart, five diamonds and two clubs. Then if he is careful he reviews the bidding in accordance with the R of the code word ARCH and remembers that West made a vulnerable two heart bid without much of a hand. Obviously he held a lot of hearts for that bid. Could he be void of diamonds?

South thinks a little more and sees that he can be sure of his contract with just four diamond tricks and he can play the diamond suit in such a manner as to keep East from getting the lead if he holds all four diamonds. South goes to dummy with a high spade and leads the 10 of diamonds. If East ducks, South lets it ride. If East covers, South wins the trick; goes back to dummy with the second high spade and leads another diamond. Then back to dummy with the king of clubs to pick up the rest of the suit and wind up with five diamond tricks in spite of East's four-card holding.

A — The correct bid is four notrump if your partner is going to treat this bid as a notrump raise and not as Blackwood. Otherwise, you just pass if pessimistic and bid four diamonds if optimistic.

'Media discrimination'

Gov. Hall raps Big 8 television ban

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma insists the Big Eight Conference does not have the right to keep the University of Oklahoma football team from playing on television.

Hall told the conference faculty representatives exactly that Thursday and asked them to reconsider the television ban which is part of a two-year probation slapped on the second-ranked Sooners, who carved a 10-0-1 record the past campaign.

The governor, appearing in person at the league governing body's winter meetings, said, "We do not challenge the right of the Big Eight Conference... to discipline players or coaches who violate the rules. However, no group of individuals, in our judgment, has the right to deny the citizens of Oklahoma the opportunity to see their football team on television."

The faculty representatives placed the Sooners on probation for two years last Aug. 8 for recruiting violations that included the altering of the high school transcript of a football player to make him eligible for competition.

The probation banned the Sooners from postseason bowl games in 1973 and 1974 and from television appearances in 1974 and 1975.

After his 30-minute appearance before the faculty representatives, Hall said, "They said they would give us the answer as soon as possible."

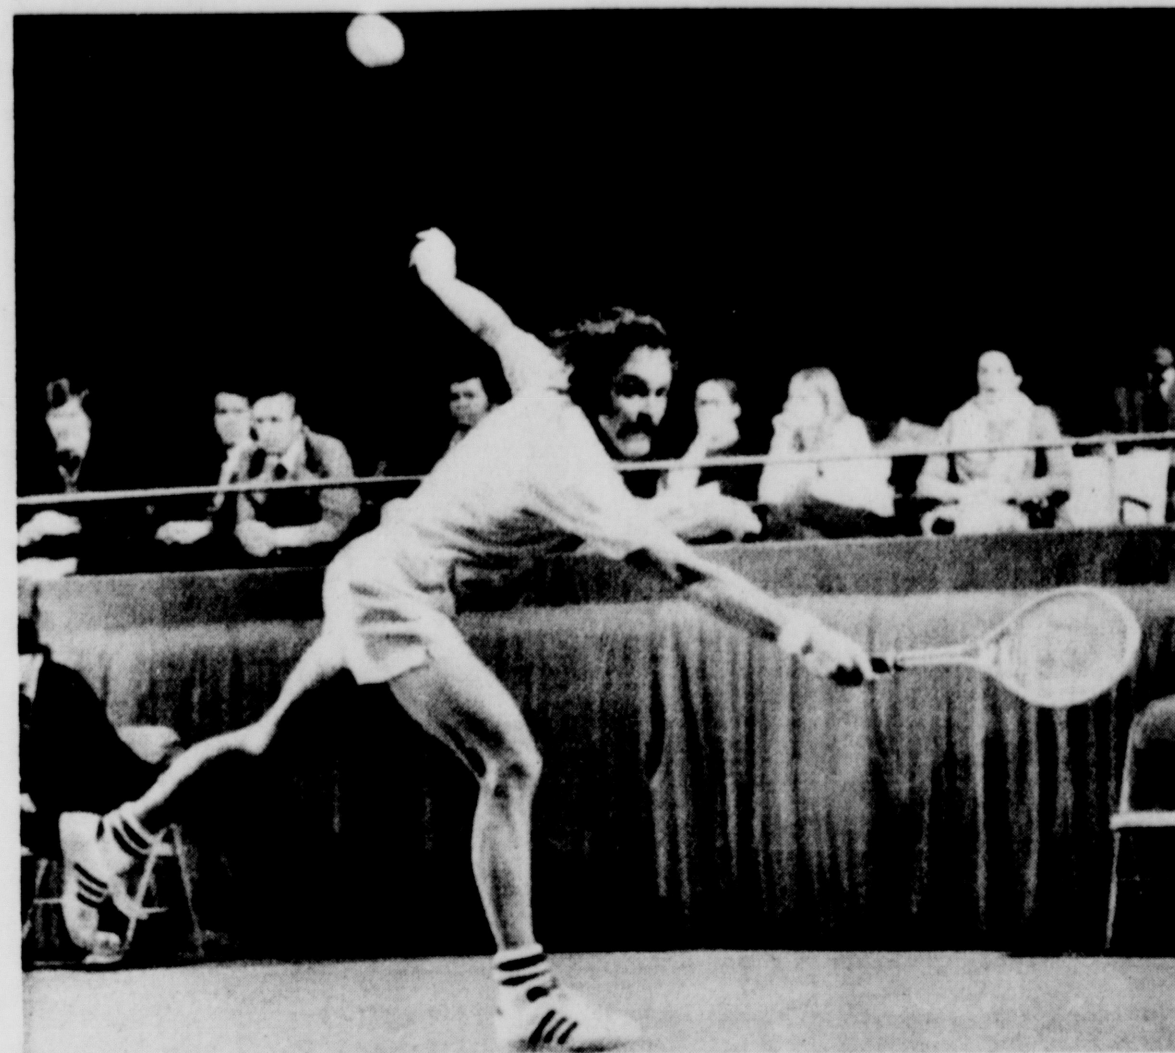

Hall told the conference had had no quarrel with the probation action "in any manner with the exception of the TV ban. We are taxpayers who support the University of Oklahoma to the tune of millions of dollars each year."

"It's just not acceptable to our people that a group with no responsibility to those who foot the bill should have the arbitrary right to make such a decision."

"There is, as you know, a five-year radio contract for the broadcast of Oklahoma University football games. It's a three-year pact... Why discriminate in your media ban?"

Hall said many people do not have $7 to buy a ticket into the stadium and "television, once or twice a season, is their only way to see the Sooners."

Hall said it was "Premature until the Big Eight Conference has had an opportunity to act" to discuss alternatives if his plea was denied but added an act by Congress was a possibility.

SFCC fortunes continue to skid

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

The skidding State Fair Community College Roadrunners dropped their third game in a row Thursday night to Trenton Junior College, 66-61.

"I just don't know what it is," said Bill Barton, SFCC coach, after the game. "We seem to get more disorganized every game."

The Roadrunners, who saw their season's record dip below the .500 (4-5) level for the first time this season, have dropped consecutive games to Hutchinson, Kan., Penn Valley and now Trenton.

Gary Garner, a former University of Missouri standout and coach of the Pirates, said of his team's performance, "...It's definitely the best game we've played this year, definitely."

Since losing their season opener to Crowder College in the first round of the State Fair Classic last month, the Pirates have won eight in a row.

The Pirates did just what they had to do to come up with a victory. Garner said before that game that he was afraid State Fair's inside attack would be too much for his club to handle. But a tough, man-to-man defense and strong rebounding turned the tide.

The Pirates' defense held the Roadrunners' potent inside attack below its average. The defense was so tough in fact, that State Fair's second-leading scorer, Colles Webb, was held off the scoreboard the first half. Webb wound up with only eight points.

Charles Shell, the team's leading scorer with a 20-point-plus average, was limited to 17, while freshman center Stan McNeill netted only seven points.

Trenton hit the boards harder all night and won the battle there 36-30, even though the Pirates gave up size at every inside position.

If those two areas, coupled with the Roadrunners' poor execution on offense, the victory was sealed at the free throw line. There, Trenton made 38 trips and was successful on 26. SFCC hit on only 15 of 24. In the stretch drive, State Fair missed on the front end of three, key one-and-one situations.

State Fair trailed much of the way in the opening half, until McNeill stuck in a follow shot with 4:40 to go, putting SFCC ahead, 28-27.

The Roadrunners managed to hang on the rest of the way, taking a 32-30 lead into the dressing room.

The cool State Fair offense got even cooler in the early minutes of the second half, and with four and one-half minutes gone, the Pirates regained the lead, 40-38, on a pair of free throws by Jack Payne.

Trenton led the rest of the way, with exception of a brief, 42-42 tie. The Pirates' biggest lead of the game came with 6:46 showing, 54-47.

Leading 62-57 with 1:26 showing, James Clabon, a 6-7 freshman from St. Louis, connected on a pair of key charity tosses, to keep the Roadrunners at bay.

Payne found the range on two more a minute later to ice the game.

Sharp-shooting sophomore forward Doug Elliott stole game honors, tossing in 22; his front line mate, Bill Presley, followed with 13, while Clabon and Payne added 12 and 11 respectively.

The Roadrunners had only two players in double figures. Besides Shell's 17 were the 12 tossed in by guard-forward Jack Easley.

State Fair will meet Highland, Kan. Community Junior College Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

Scoring

Trenton (66) — Doug Elliott 22, Bill Presley 13, James Clabon 12, Jack Payne 11, Butch Allen 7, Pete Rorvig 1.

State Fair (61) — Charles Shell 17, Jack Easley 12, Colles Webb 8, Steve Flippin 8, Stan McNeill 7, Billy Townes 7, Jerry Bybee 2.

Trenton 30 36—66

State Fair 32 29—61

Fouled out — (Trenton) Bill Presley, (State Fair) Jerry Bybee.

Jefferson City Helias found out what it's like to lose one at the buzzer Tuesday, when a five foot jump shot by Ted Wood gave the Eldon Mustangs a 70-68 victory over the Crusaders.

In last week's Tipton Invitational Tournament, Helias nicked the Sacred Heart Gremlins, 43-41, on a final-second shot by Tim Scheutler. Scheutler, the Crusaders' top scorer, let one fly from mid-court in that game, a shot that broke up a possible overtime deadlock.

One observant spectator said after the game between the two parochial schools, "God was neutral here tonight... He let the teams play their own game."

Sacred Heart, struggling to reach the .500 level, hosts the Crusaders Friday night in a rematch of last week's consolation division game in the Tipton Tournament.

God will no doubt once again be neutral, but when it comes to playing Sacred Heart on the Grems' home floor, opposing coaches wish God was on their bench.

Sacred Heart will be opening its home season with the game.

Gremlins to meet Helias in re-match

In addition, the Grems will be trying to preserve a 16-game home victory streak. Sacred Heart hasn't lost a game at home since Jan. 29, 1971, when Stover captured a 55-43 Kaysinger Conference win.

The Crusaders are 1-3 overall; their only victory is one that third-year Gremlins' coach Tom Beer would like to avenge.

"We want to try and force Scheutler outside a little more," said Beer earlier in the week. "He hurt us last week in the tournament... they'll also probably have a couple of people we didn't see in the tournament because Helias was still involved in football," he added.

In particular Ron Adrian and Larry Jansen, both of whom were expected to start for the Crusaders.

Scheutler, a 5-10 guard, will probably be joined in backcourt by 5-9 Jerry Muessig, along with center Tom Redel (6-6), and forwards Tom Bose (6-3) and John Schwartz (6-0).

Chiefs face elimination

OAKLAND (AP) — The whole National Football League season has come down to one big game for the Kansas City Chiefs and the Oakland Raiders, and they'll play it Saturday before a sellout crowd of 54,700 at Oakland Coliseum.

A loss will eliminate the Chiefs, 6-4-2, from contention for the AFC West Division Title. A victory for the Raiders, 7-4-1, will leave them needing at least a tie in their finale with Denver, 6-4-2, unless San Diego upsets the Broncos Sunday.

Both clubs have outstanding defenses, with only the Miami Dolphins allowing fewer points than the 149 the Chiefs have yielded opponents and the 151 given up by the Raiders.

But both have had uneven offensive performances and have experienced trouble beating the better NFL teams.

The Raiders did end Miami's 18-game victory string, but lost to Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and to the Chiefs in Kansas City, 16-3. Their 23-23 tie at Denver kept the Broncos in the running.

The Chiefs' 20-20 tie with Cleveland last Sunday came after they went into the final quarter leading 20-6. They've lost to Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Denver and Buffalo and also tied Green Bay.

In the bitterly contested series, the Chiefs lead 13-12-2, but the Raiders have won the division title in six of the last seven years and have five victories and a tie for the last six games played here. Oakland is a six-point favorite.

Decision Monday

Mich. won't back Rose Bowl suit

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan wants to go to the Rose Bowl, but the University's athletic board doesn't want anything to do with the law suit seeking to overturn the vote denying the Wolverines that chance.

"We do not and will not condone such an action... or support it in any way," said Marcus Plant, U-M faculty representative for athletics, in a federal court affidavit.

District Court Judge Fred Kaess, a Michigan alumnus, read the affidavit Thursday at a 90-minute hearing in which plaintiff Gerald Faye sought a preliminary injunction forcing a new vote by Big Ten athletic directors.

Kaess denied the injunction and set his final judgment on the case for Monday. He also denied a motion by Faye's attorneys, Ronald Egnor and Kenneth Bronson, that an unnamed Michigan football player and a band member be added as plaintiffs.

Faye is suing Wayne Duke, conference commissioner, and the league's 10 athletic directors over their vote Nov. 25 to send Ohio State to the Rose Bowl football game Jan. 1 instead of Michigan.

The teams finished the season in a 10-10 tie to wind up as unbeaten conference co-champions. Although Ohio State was the Rose Bowl representative last year, Big Ten athletic directors broke tradition by voting to send the same team two years in a row.

Faye, among other things, claims in his suit that the vote was illegal because it was a public matter voted on privately and that the outcome was engineered by Duke.

An injunction would have forced a new vote at a meeting of athletic directors at which "all the facts are fully aired."

Faye, 43, is a graduate student at Michigan. He said he is also on the faculty at Oakland Community College but is on sabbatical leave.

TGI golf circuit makes debut in St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Tournament Golf International, which hopes to eventually compete with the Professional Golf Association's tour, was to make its debut here Friday with the first round of a 54-hole tournament.

A number of PGA tour regulars, including Chi-Chi Rodriguez, Bob Murphy, Bob Goalby and Mason Rudolph, are scheduled to play in the $125,000 Shrine National Pro-Am Invitational.

First place money is $15,000 and second is $7,000.

This initial effort of TGI poses no threat to the PGA tour since the PGA ended its 1973 season last week with the Disney World Open near Orlando.

Joe Dey, commissioner of the PGA, refused to comment about the new tour when asked his opinion in New York Wednesday.

Tiger grapplers set three school marks

Sedalia Smith-Cotton literally pinned a defeat on Versailles in dual wrestling action Thursday night in the S-C gymnasium.

The Tigers, who are now 2-0 in dual competition, established three records on the way to a 54-18 victory.

S-C's 54 points are the most ever by a Tiger squad in dual competition; in addition the Bengals recorded a record number of pins—seven.

One of those pins took only 18 seconds, when Robert Thornton pinned Versailles' Terry Rail in the 119-pound division, which breaks the school record by six seconds.

With exception of two forfeits, which were awarded to S-C in the 98 and 105-pound classes, all the divisions were determined by pins.

The 12-match varsity card took only 45 minutes to complete.

Results
98 — Tim Bryant (S-C) won on forfeit.
105 — Jeff Allen (S-C) won on forfeit.

Astros deal Wynn for Osteen

Plan suit over Padres move

HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Wynn moved to Los Angeles. Claude Osteen moved to Houston. Denny Doyle moved to California. ... and San Diego moved to Washington, D.C.

The last move created the most controversy at the action-filled winter baseball meetings Thursday.

The Wynn-Osteen deal between the Astros and the Dodgers, and the Philadelphia Phillies' trade that sent Doyle to the Angels were among the major swaps.

Overshadowing the trades however, was the announcement by the National League that the financially troubled San Diego franchise would be moved to Washington, contingent on some unnamed "conditions."

And shortly after the stunning announcement, an attorney for the city of San Diego revealed: "We will file a $12 million antitrust suit in federal court against the Padres, the National League and Mr. Danzansky."

Joseph Danzansky, a grocery chain magnate, heads the purchasing group from Washington that has taken the Padres from a passionately interested San Diego group.

It appeared that one of the prime conditions of the move concerned protection against a possible suit. It was learned that the city of Washington would indemnify the National League for any legal judgment that results in the swing east.

Upon learning of the move, attorney John Witt of the city of San Diego proclaimed that a suit would be filed because, "The Padres broke a contract."

The Padres have 15 years left on a 20-year contract to play in San Diego.

While the smoldering San Diego situation occupied most of the attention, there also were the trades.

Wynn, Houston's power-hitting outfielder, was sent to Los Angeles for two pitchers — the left-handed Osteen and minor leaguer Dave Culpepper. Doyle, a smooth-fielding second baseman, was sent to California for two minor leaguers, completing a deal in which the Angels sold infielder Bill Grabarkewitz to Philadelphia late last season. For Doyle, the Angels sent pitcher Aurelio Monteagudo and outfielder Chris Coletta to the Phils.

Those deals were among seven Thursday. The others included:

The Texas Rangers purchasing first baseman-outfielder Terry Crowley from the Baltimore Orioles.

The New York Yankees buying shortstop Jim Mason from the Rangers.

The Detroit Tigers trading pitcher Mike Strahler to the Milwaukee Brewers for pitcher Ray Newman.

The Angels trading catcher Jeff Torborg to the St. Louis Cardinals for relief pitcher John Andrews.

The Chicago Cubs dealing catcher Randy Hundley to the Minnesota Twins for catcher George Mitterwald.

Thursday's deals brought the number of players traded this week to 40 in a total of 17 transactions.

Skyline in a breeze; Hounds end drought

By BOB SHACKELFORD
Staff Sports Writer

WARSAW — Top-seeded Skyline moved into the finals of the Warsaw Invitational Basketball Tournament here Thursday by breezing past Warsaw, 71-53. The Tigers will meet the winner of tonight's Cole Camp, LaMonte game for the championship in Saturday's finals.

Balanced scoring and an aggressive defense told the whole story of the one-sided affair, as Coach Dale Kimberling's defending tourney champs forced repeated turnovers with their zone press, gained control of both backboards and worked the ball inside for easy laysups.

Probably the most effective defense of the young season was slapped on Warsaw's high-scoring guard Scott Steffans, who was held to only six points.

Warsaw made only one serious bid in the contest, that in the final period, when the Wildcats closed to within 10, 55-45, but it was too little too late.

Six-foot, one-inch senior guard Mark Dwire led the Tigers with 25 points, while Tim Hedrick had 24 for the losers.

In the night's other game, Windsor ended a 34-game losing streak by downing Lincoln, 69-51. Windsor had not seen a victory since defeating Butler in the Clinton Invitational Tournament in January, 1971.

The 'Hounds jumped out to a 7-0 lead and held the Cardinals scoreless, until Mike Mullins hit a charity toss with 3:31 to go in the opening period, which ended 13-5 in favor of the victors.

Second-quarter scoring was evenly matched but after the intermission Windsor ripped off 10 straight points, while holding the Cardinals scoreless, jumped out to a commanding 42-25 lead and retained control the rest of the way.

Sophomore center Chris Mitchell (6-5), put on quite an offensive display for Coach Duane Silver's Greyhounds, pouring in 33 points. He also grabbed off 14 rebounds.

Another sophomore, 6-1 Darrell Sydes, did a fine defensive job as well as aiding Mitchell in the rebound department with 13 caroms.

Rod Ingram and Rick Rank led the Cards with 12 each.

The win avenged an earlier loss this season to Lincoln, when the Cardinals captured a 61-46 decision.

Windsor will meet Stover for the consolation trophy in tonight's 7 p.m. game.

Cole Camp and LaMonte square off at 8:30 p.m. for the other berth in the finals.

Skyline (71) — Dwire 25, Lear 14, Hash 13, McCoy 10, Mahewine 7, Poche 2.

Royals deal Piniella, Wright for McDaniel

HOUSTON (AP) — The Kansas City Royals acquired veteran relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel from the New York Yankees today in exchange for outfielder Lou Piniella and pitcher Ken Wright.

McDaniel, who will be 38 next Thursday, has been a mainstay of the Yankee bullpen since joining the team in 1968. He compiled a 12-6 record with a 2.81 earned run average and 10 saves last season.

The right-hander had previous major-league service with San Francisco, the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis. He will be starting his 20th season in the majors.

Piniella, an original member of the Royals in 1969, batted .250 with nine home runs and 69 runs batted in last season. The 30-year-old outfielder bats right-handed.

Wright, a right-hander, was 6-5 with a 4.91 ERA for the Royals in 1973. He is 27.

Fatal shooting ruled accident

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — Mitchell Boyd, 10, died of a gunshot wound that a coroner's jury described Thursday as accidental.

The jury heard testimony that the gun was being cleaned by Darby Donaldson, 14, inside his home and the weapon fired when he laid it on a couch Wednesday.

The 22 caliber bullet passed through a picture window and storm window and struck Boyd in the temple. Boyd and another boy were waiting outside for Donaldson's 10-year-old brother, Darren, to come out.

The jury said the gun was handled in a negligent and careless manner.

Authorities seek woman in a truck

NEVADA, Mo. (AP) — The body of a man was found in a Nevada motel Thursday afternoon by the motel owner, and the highway patrol said officers were looking for a woman in a truck.

Coroner Ingles Ferry did not disclose the cause of death and the victim's name was withheld.

Behind-the-scenes man gets new powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — William E. Simon suddenly became one of the nation's most powerful men Tuesday and immediately offered his countrymen a choice between comfort and jobs.

Until now, as deputy treasury secretary, Simon has been known to Washington initiates as a behind-the-scenes influence on energy policy, but his name was scarcely a household word.

On Tuesday, with an executive order and a rare visit to the White House press room, President Nixon elevated Simon to be chief manager of emergency energy programs, energy adviser to the President and executive director of the cabinet-level Energy Emergency Action group.

Nixon delegated to Simon Presidential powers provided by the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, the Defense Production Act of 1950, and the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973.

Simon told newsmen he would use those powers and would not bother the President for decisions any more than necessary.

Determined to reduce the nation's energy appetite, Simon went on to prescribe a bitter diet: price increases and-or taxes on all forms of energy, and possibly all-out rationing to boot.

The Cost of Living Council announced price increases on fuel oils Wednesday, to encourage refineries to shift production toward these scarce products and away from more profitable gasoline.

As gasoline production is cut, its consumption must also be reduced.

"This may require some combination of gasoline price increases, taxes and rationing, as well as voluntary and mandatory conservation measures," Simon warned.

Although Simon and his boss, Treasury Secretary George P.

Shultz, have favored gasoline taxes or price hikes over rationing, both of them have warned — Simon publicly and Shultz through friends — that they should not be considered opponents of rationing if the shortages continue to grow.

The assignment of energy policy and power to Simon and the resignation of former energy adviser John A. Love was not, Simon said, the resolution of a battle between taxes and rationing; instead, the public may get both.

Furthermore, he said this week, residential and commercial energy use must be cut and "this will require some price increases or taxes on natural gas and electricity, in addition to the allocation program on home heating fuel."

This allocation, proposed late last month and scheduled to be put into effect soon, would impose consumer rationing by requiring cutbacks in fuel use amounting to 10 per cent for industries, 15 per cent for the householders, and 25 per cent for commercial space-heating.

Simon said a decision on whether to impose gasoline rationing would be made by the end of this month.

He called it a last resort, as did President Nixon earlier, but Simon evidently accepted an Interior Department analysis of impending shortages which seemed to imply rationing of some kind.

He said he agreed that gasoline consumption must be cut 30 per cent, the estimate of Interior's report.

If emergency vehicles and essential business vehicles are to be kept rolling, the Interior study had concluded, this cutback "translates into a 50 per cent reduction in family, social and recreational driving."

In a news conference Tuesday, Simon discussed, almost casually, the car-pooling, speed limits, and so on, that would be needed "if there is a 50 per cent reduction in automobile gas consumption."

Simon warned that rationing through something like the wartime coupon system was "full of problems" but "we're going ahead" with planning for a decision.

Fuel taxes, too, have their problems, Simon noted, including their impact on the poor and their possible depressing effect on an economy already headed for a shortage-induced slowdown next year.

If additional energy taxes are applied, Simon said, he would favor earmarking the revenues for mass transit development and would consider tax rebates to the poor.

If petroleum prices are allowed to rise sharply, he said, "we have to make sure the monies that (energy com-

Soviets' U.N. envoy is still a cold warrior

By TOM TIEDE
UNITED NATIONS — When Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik interrupted a Security Council meeting here the other week with one of his energetic points of order, a Chinese representative stood up, arms waving, and said to the Russian:

"You should wait. What does it matter if you wait a few minutes? You should do things with style. I've known you for decades and you've never changed your habits."

That said it, probably, for many of the diplomats at the meeting that day. And no doubt for thousands of others who have observed Malik during a quarter century of U.N. activity. Governments change. Government attitudes change also. But the Malik of the '70s is much like the Malik of the '40s — a thorn in this great body's side.

Yet if he's a pain to progressive diplomacy, Jacob Aleksandrovich Malik must be joy for his employers. In two terms as chief U.N. delegate for the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (1948 to 1952 and 1968 to present) the 67-year-old "Ambassador Extraordinary" apparently has gotten from the United Nations just about what Moscow wants: world attention, apprehension and occasionally, respect.

The other day Malik got all three at one time. During debates over the Middle East peace-keeping force, he engaged in a finger-pointing shouting match with U.S. Ambassador John Scali. While reporters recorded the scene for the newsreading globe and other delegates stood by in shock and fear for their Middle East resolution, Malik made his point: He wanted a single word change in the document for truce force authority. He wanted it to read that the peacekeepers would act with "approval" rather than just the "consent" of the Security Council.

PICTURE FRAMING

Nitpicking? Not at all, say observers. The word approval is a stronger one than consent, thus safeguarding Malik's veto right over any U.N. force action

No doubt Malik deserved some of the scorn. He moved about the United Nations surrounded by an Iron Curtain of oafish aides and security personnel. He heaped abuse on many nations during self-serving floor addresses. And when, in 1950, he took his turn as Security Council president during the Korean conflict, he insisted on putting that agonizing matter well down the agenda.

Even so, the treatment accorded Malik at times was uncivilized. And so, says a U.S. authority today: "I believe he learned two things in those days. One that the bourgeois were indeed his enemies. And two, that he had to shout at us to get our real attention. It's somewhat anachronistic today, but I think he still believes it."

Indeed, Malik seldom forgets the past. A still-a-bit-rough product of the Bolshevik Revolution, hardened even more by the experience of World War II (three million of his Ukrainian people died during Nazi occupation) he is a man, says a British official here, "who is exceptionally protective of Russian interests." In sum, he's hard nosed — and even during détente a cold warrior.

It is this latter trait, perhaps, that most distinguishes and affects Malik's U.N. performance. Some say that even after nine years U.N. experience (the most for a Russian), he is, because of continued hatred for the West, a flawed diplomat. When he began service here he was so resentful of non-Communists that he committed the biggest diplomatic gaff in U.N. history — he boycotted the Security Council, because of a petty disappointment, thus ironically allowing that body to send a U.N. force to Korea.

Today, though more polished, he remains unpredictably clumsy. Says a critic here: "It would be better for the Soviets to get someone else."

But would it be better for the rest of the world? Perhaps not. Someone else might be smoother, even more conciliatory on small issues, but U.S. authorities believe the West is better off with Malik. "He reminds us that Russia is still Russia," explains one U.N. veteran.

Impossible to sell

The growing energy crisis is beginning to make a noticeable impact on car sales. The display area of a large car dealer in Duesseldorf, Germany, is full of new autos but empty of buyers. Said one automobile salesman: "Selling a car has been quite a problem for the past few weeks, but now it's impossible."

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Cold at age 76

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a married man, 76 years old, in good health, so the doctor tells me. I have no aches or pains except the small ones us old bags have. Most mornings I say, "Good morning, God." But, there are a few mornings I might say, "Good God, another Day!" But, very few.

My trouble is that for the past 20 years I have been feeling cold. Each year it has gotten more so. The last doctor, now retired, checked my blood for thyroid trouble, gave me some tablets, two each day, but they did no good. I dread the winter but financially am not able to go to a warm climate.

I have good eyesight, good hearing, and most of my own teeth, keep my weight at 150 pounds, am five-foot five. Don't have any arthritis or anemia. Do you think an endocrinologist can do something for me? Also, can a senior citizen afford it? We are living on social security.

Incidentally, I ride my bike every day to keep in condition.

DEAR READER — I hope I'm doing that well at 76. I don't think I would go to an expensive effort without first seeing my family doctor. I doubt your symptom of feeling cold is indicative of any significant thyroid or gland problems. Some people are more sensitive to the cold than others.

Your daily bike riding suggests to me that you exercise regularly. Physical activity is a good way to warm up. The sensation of being cold really comes from the skin, not the internal body. If you have a lot of warm blood circulating to the skin, you will feel warm.

As people get older they often don't have as many muscle cells and other active cells that commonly generate heat. They actually are colder. You can even measure the difference. You can offset this by increasing your activity. It can be light physical activity about the house.

The other problem is often a decrease in circulation. This is particularly apt to make the feet cold. I think older people, in colder climates especially, should consider wearing a pair of warm socks to bed at night. A lot of readers have told me warm socks, a blanket, or other measures to keep the feet and legs warm at night helps to prevent leg cramps.

What you eat also makes a difference. For some complicated reasons proteins generate more body heat than either carbohydrates or fats. In the process of converting them to energy, they form extra heat calories. A meat eater then is better suited for cold climates. I'm not suggesting that you go on a meat diet, but you might seriously increase your protein intake in the winter months. Eat your protein in the morning and lunch meals to be warm in the day. You won't need the extra warmth at night if you have warm socks and adequate bedding. Lean meat, fish, poultry, fortified skim milk, beans, soybeans and cottage cheese are all good sources of protein.

I think a number of older people feel cold because they are not eating enough of the right foods. People on low calorie diets feel cold and have very cold skin. Thermal underwear will help too. (I mean Long John thermal underwear.) You may need them with this year's energy crisis.
